

2022 Melbourne Finance Doctoral Information Session

THE UNIVERSITY OF MELBOURNE

Department of Finance | Faculty of Business and Economics

On Thursday 29 September 2022, the Department of Finance at the University of Melbourne will hold an online information session outlining the Department's doctoral program in Finance.

Our world-class program begins with two years of advanced course work in finance, economics, econometrics, mathematics, and statistics. Dissertation supervision is provided by the Department's faculty. The faculty regularly publish in the leading Finance and Economics journals. Generous scholarships, fee waivers, conference attendance reimbursement, and a research allowance are available throughout the program.

The Department of Finance at the University of Melbourne wants to attract the very best doctoral candidates to study with us. The Department has an experienced group of senior faculty (Professors Carole Comerton-Forde, John Handley, Carsten Murawski, Federico Nardari and Garry Twite) and a wonderful group of young graduates from Alabama, Arizona State, Tel Aviv, Bocconi, Warwick, Georgia State, UC Santa Barbara, University of Texas at Austin, Kellogg, ESSEC, Cambridge Judge Business School, Tilburg, Columbia, Konstanz, Melbourne, Wharton, Zurich, University of Washington, University of Minnesota, Ohio State, Penn State, Monash, Newcastle, Tsukuba, UNSW, NYU and Cornell.

The information session will be presented by five Department of Finance faculty members and will cover:

- The structure of the Finance PhD program
- The research and publications of the Department's faculty members
- The Department's weekly seminar series and annual Finance Down Under Conference
- The Department's large set of databases
- The application procedure
- The funding, support, and placement of our doctoral students.

We will be presenting three information sessions, targeting different time zones:
